Cubans Cutting-Up in New York

The downfall of the Cuban government was celebrated in New York by a mob of exuberant Cubans when they broke into the Cuban consulate, confiscated a bust and framed picture of Gerardo Machado, deposed dictator, and paraded triumphantly with their prizes through Manhattan. This was the scene in Harlem as the demonstrators knifed the Machado picture.

Crimes Goes On
But as the law struck, crime went on. John Donovan, a 65-year-old recluse, was found brutally slain at his Elizabeth, N. J., home late last night. The body lay in a pool of blood. The head had been bashed, as though with an ax. The house was in extreme disorder—drawers pulled from dressers, doors to closets ripped from their hinges and mattresses and pillows torn open.
The body of a truck driver, James Palermo, was found near a road-way in Astoria (Queens), New York. He had been trussed in a manner so that every struggle to free himself tightened a rope about his neck, so that he garotted himself.
The law, however, considered it self a victor in the announcement in New York that a treaty of peace had been agreed to by rival Chinese gangs, ending the threat of nationwide conflict between them.

Even Churches May Fall Under Eagle
Washington, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Even a church may fall within the scope of the National Recovery Act in the opinion of some at the NRA headquarters.
While there has been no formal ruling, the view was expressed by officials there today that a church has the same status as any business concern if it employs three or more persons.
Touhy Gangsters Ordered To Trial
Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Roger Touhy, Chicago gang leader, and three of his lieutenants today were ordered removed to St. Paul for trial on a charge of kidnapping William Hamm Jr., St. Paul brewer, by Federal Judge F. A. Geiger. The gangsters had waived a removal hearing before United States Commissioner Floyd E. Jenkins.
Shelton To Sue Sheriff Munie
East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Earl A. Shelton, reputed southern Illinois gangster, today sued Sheriff Jerome Munie for $500 damages for seizing his automobile in a recent raid.
Harold Bandy, attorney for Shelton, replied that the car and then instituted the suit.

Asks Aid of Man Who Jailed Him
Governor Floyd Olson of Minnesota was reminded of a pledge made more than 12 years ago when Charles Harris (above), convicted of murder in Washington, D. C., appealed to him for aid. Olson, as prosecuting attorney of Hennepin County, Minn., sent Harris to jail in 1918 on a robbery charge of which Olson later believed him innocent. On Harris' release three years later Olson said: "If there's anything I can ever do for you, let me know."

ILLINOIS STATE FAIR WILL OPEN TOMORROW MORN

Livestock Entries Break Past Records—
81st. Session

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 18.—(AP)—The Illinois State Fair will open its gates for the 81st time here tomorrow, having already attracted entries of more than 8,000 head of prize-winning livestock and being confident of the usual brisk business at the ticket offices.
For the exhibitor, success was assured. In virtually every division, the livestock entries broke past records for the fair.
Confident predictions of a large attendance were made by Walter McLaughlin, State Director of Agriculture, and Edward S. Collins, the new general manager, despite the possibility that some would pass up the annual exposition here for Chicago's Century of Progress. A better outlook for farm prices was expected to help the gate.
Heavy Premium Offers
Premiums totaling $130,000 were reported by McLaughlin and Collins to exceed the prize offers of any other state fair this year.
A week ago the officials started to turn down entries on the grounds that all available exposition space had been taken for 1,824 cattle, 4,000 swine, 1,296 sheep, 750 horses, and 8,000 poultry exhibits.
The fair, which closes on Saturday Aug. 26 opens tomorrow with the selection of the healthiest farm boy and girl in the state. Sunday will be Veteran's Day with former soldiers having special programs. Judging of livestock will start the first of the week.

LAW LIKE TRAP; CRIME GOES ON

"We All Work Or Nobody Works" Is Mine Strike Theme
Hazelton, Pa., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Fourteen hundred miners went on strike at two anthracite collieries today in response to the appeal of men without jobs who demand "we all work or nobody works."
A motercade wound around the road to Cranberry colliery of the Lehigh Navigation Coal Company, conferred with miners' leaders and a short time later, A. Walbridge, superintendent, announced that his men had gone out on a "forced strike."
Miners' chiefs said about 800 men quit.
A short time later, the motercade moved on to Mahanoy City, where a mass meeting will be held this afternoon and further mines will be picketed, the miners said.
Earlier today, 600 miners of the Taska-Williams Alliance pit were recruited to the cause of the idle workers.

Manhunt in Three States
Springfield, Ark., Aug. 18.—(AP)—A net to catch LeRoy Wright, alleged desperado who escaped a machine gun offensive in which officers killed Gene Johnson, reputed confederate of the Wilbur Underhill gang of escaped Kansas prison inmates, and wounded his wife, was spread over three states today.
The hunt was concentrated in the wild country north of Siloan Springs where bloodhounds lost the trail. Authorities in Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma were notified. The possibility that Wright was wounded spurred the search.
Twenty peace officers from the three states occupied points of vantage about the Johnson farm home near here early yesterday and opened fire when the three, Johnson, his wife and Wright, drove up in an automobile and tried to flee as they were ordered to surrender.
Body Shielded Woman
Two men fell and Mrs. Johnson was wounded in the arm by flying splinters from the car. Her wounded husband dropped across her, partially shielding the woman from the hail of sub-machine gun, rifle and pistol bullets. The man believed to be Wright escaped in the confusion after a sawed-off shotgun was blasted from his hands.
Johnson died late yesterday of a head wound. His wife was held in the Benton county jail at Bentonville.
Officers said Johnson was wanted, together with Wright and three other men, in the slaying of a policeman during a filling station robbery at McPherson, Kan. Wright was wanted for a killing at Picher, Okla.

Havana Acclaims U. S. Mediator

Acclaimed by Cubans for his work as mediator and his present efforts in helping the new government get off to a steady start, United States Ambassador Sumner Welles (indicated by arrow) is pictured receiving the cheers and plaudits of a crowd of natives as he leaves the American Embassy in Havana.

SEC. WALLACE OUTLINES HIS PORK PROGRAM
estimating that the levy, paid by those who turn the swine into marketable pork, will be "considerably less than a cent a pound."
Originated With Farmers
Wallace said the plan originated with hog farmers and their representatives to meet the emergency facing producers as a result of this year's short feed crop, adding:
"There are some things about it that we do not like but we are putting it into effect because we have not been able to think of anything as good."
He estimated that the purchases will reduce the total tonnage of swine marketed for the 1933-34 marketing starting October 1 by up to 1,800,000 pounds, or about 15 per cent of the hog tonnage annually marketed.
"If past experience is any guide, a reduction of 15 to 16 per cent in market supplies should increase hog prices for the season by anywhere from 25 to 30 per cent," Wallace said. "Prices paid for these pigs and sows will, I believe, be sufficient to warrant the cooperation of hog producers."
All Meat to Needy
The Federal Emergency Relief Administration, Wallace continued, has indicated its desire to dispose of all the meat to needy persons. It will be purchased by the relief group at a price sufficient to defray the costs of processing, storage and freight.
He said the meat will not be sold in competition with that sold in regular trade channels, and that inedible portions which will be converted into by-products "should be distributed in such a manner as not to upset the market."
The program will be followed up quickly by drafting of a corn and hog program, Wallace said, asserting that 20,000,000 acres of corn should be taken out of production in order to adjust supplies of swine and corn, grown chiefly as feed for hogs, to future demand.
Unless a long-range program was a certainty, Wallace said he would be unable to approve of the emergency program because of its potential effect on hog prices in coming years.

Eight Dead From Sleeping Sickness In St. Louis Now

St. Louis, Aug. 18.—(AP)—William Polette, a laborer living in suburban Webster Groves died last night at isolation hospital, the eighth death in the "sleeping sickness" outbreak in which about 84 cases have been reported.
Regulations have been adopted to deal with the epidemic in which only two new cases were reported today. Patients will be isolated for three weeks after the illness attacks them, and rigid rules for visiting will be placed in effect as hospitals.
As the disease is not generally considered contagious, and it is believed it is not spread by casual contacts, there will be no ban on public meetings.
Women that are interested in saving money will want to read the ads in this evening's Telegraph. There are some real bargains.

THE COCK PHEASANT

OLD in the stubble.
Blood red as the buck-vine.
Proud struts the pheasant.
His world is like wine.

Fresh in the sunlight.
Young brilliance in air.
Poised for a moment.
Then hurtling down there—

Life, scintillating.
Meets tail trained and cold.
Dark stains the stubble.
Where once it was gold.

Wawokee Club Picnic at Grand Detour

The Wawokee Club enjoyed a picnic near Grand Detour Wednesday.

There was a good attendance and the weather was perfect for an outing.

Part of the afternoon was spent in cutting out quilt blocks, after which a short business meeting was held.

Roll call was answered with a favorite salad recipe.

Plans were made for the annual picnic to be held Sunday, Aug. 27, at the cottages on the Tony Hoyle farm on the north side of the river.

Each family is to take fried chicken. Ice cream will be furnished.

The next regular meeting will be held Aug. 30th, and will be another picnic at the home of Mrs. Arthur Hoban, on Route 3.

Miss Ruth Fluck Bride Jas. Walton

Saturday afternoon Miss Ruth Fluck principal of Thome school, Rock Falls, and James Walton, athletic coach and teacher in Central school, Sterling, were united in marriage at Champaign.

Mrs. Walton is a daughter of Supervisor and Mrs. John Fluck of Hume center, and Mr. Walton is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walton of Rock Falls. Mrs. Walton is a graduate of the Illinois state teachers college at DeKalb, and Mr. Walton is a graduate of the state normal school at Normal. This summer he has been attending summer school at the University of Illinois, Urbana. Both Mr. and Mrs. Walton are popular with a large circle of friends. They will live in Sterling.

ARE GUESTS AT THE FRANK HETTINGER HOME

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Hettinger of Knox City, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hettinger of Behring, Mo., are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hettinger in Dixon. Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hettinger have gone to Chicago to attend the Century of Progress for a few days.

CARRIES ALL-BRAN ON EVERY VOYAGE

Seaman Finds This Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Here is an unsolicited letter from Mr. Darragh:

"I have been going to sea for the past fourteen years. Every trip, I underwent severe headaches, nervousness, and sleeplessness. Tried all sorts of remedies, and received only temporary relief.

"So hearing about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN thought I would get a box, which I did. That was six months ago, haven't been without it at home, and when I go to sea a box of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is always with me."—George D. Darragh, 1914 32nd Avenue, Oakland, California.

Tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things for common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

How much pleasant this is than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Fine Flower Exhibit With Polo Fall Festival Aug. 31, Sept. 1

Polo, Ill., Aug. 18—Entry lists and rules governing the flower exhibit to be in connection with annual Polo fall festival, Aug. 31 and Sept. 1, under the auspices of Polo Woman's club, were announced today.

Plans are under way to make the 1933 show one of the largest and most successful in the history of the festival.

Any person residing in Polo or surrounding communities is eligible to compete for awards in the exhibit, Mrs. May E. Hammer, chairman of the committee, has explained. Exhibits must be prepared for the judges by 11 A. M., Thursday, Aug. 31, and exhibitors and visitors will not be permitted to remain in the judges' quarters during the inspection of the flowers.

May Employ Green

In event of lack of competition in any class, presentation of awards will be left to the discretion of the judges. Exhibits are to be left at the show headquarters until 9:30 P. M., Friday, Sept. 1. Green may be used with any flower arrangement, the committee head stated.

Exhibits will be divided into various classes, and twenty-five points awarded in arrangements for highest rating in color, perfection of bloom, arrangement, and receptacle. The exhibitor receiving the greatest number of blue ribbons will receive an award, as will the individual number of entries.

List Exhibit Classes

Entries will be divided under the following classes and exhibits:

Class one, flower perfection; single specimens of garden flowers, each variety judged separately; class two, best bouquets of any one variety of unmixed flowers; each variety judged separately; class three, table bouquets; mixed bouquet; red predominating; lavender predominating; pink predominating; blue predominating; yellow predominating; class four, most attractive bouquets in kitchen utensils; most attractive bouquet with color arrangement.

Class five, living room bouquets; mixed bouquets; predominating colors, red, lavender or purple, pink, blue, and yellow; class six, Japanese arrangement; wall pockets; class seven, most attractive bouquet of wild flowers; most attractive bouquet of ornamental berries or shrubs; class eight, unusual display; blooming plants, foliage plants; class nine, children's section, cash prizes awarded for each exhibit in miniature garden display and characters made from vegetables.

The Versatile Tomato Comes Into Its Own

Fresh tomatoes are coming into local markets and they are at their best when they are "home grown" and sun-ripened. Fully matured, naturally ripened tomatoes are rich sources of vitamins A, B and C and should appear daily in our menus as long as they are obtainable.

Tomatoes make an economical substitute for oranges while the citrus fruit is scarce and high. Keep in mind, however, that tomatoes have only half the vitamin C content of oranges and use them in proportion. Other fresh fruits and vegetables add their share of the C vitamin and help to keep up the necessary standard.

A recent investigation regarding the iron content of certain fruits and vegetables reveals that the juice contains only a small part of the iron in oranges and tomatoes. This definite bit of scientific information is of great value to the homemaker since it enables her to make the most of her foods.

Ways of Serving

The ways of serving tomatoes are countless. From breakfast to dinner they find a welcome. A toasted bacon and tomato sandwich is an appetizing innovation in the breakfast menu. A tomato juice cocktail is a stimulating first course for a luncheon or dinner or breakfast. Stuffed tomato salads are almost legion, the number being limited only by the cook's imagination. Fruits, vegetables and meats—including fish and poultry—combine splendidly with the pleasant tartness of tomatoes.

As the season advances, fresh tomatoes can be used to advantage in hot dishes. They are particularly good in scalloped dishes, since the juice supplies enough liquid. Plenty of coarse buttered crumbs must be used in order to absorb the juice and make the dish attractive for serving. The bread crumbs in turn increase the number of calories in the concoction and add to the fuel value of the meal.

The seasoning of all tomato dishes is important. Sugar tempers the tartness and is a decided help toward blending flavors. From one-half to one tablespoon sugar to four tomatoes suits the average taste. Salt, of course, and often pepper and a hint of spices, increase the piquancy of tomato dishes.

Stuffed Baked Tomatoes

Four large smooth tomatoes, 2 cups coarse stale bread crumbs, 1 cup diced celery, 1-2 cup shelled and blanched almonds, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, few drops onion juice, 2 tablespoons melted butter, sugar, parsley.

Cut a slice from the stem end of tomatoes and scoop out seeds, taking care not to injure shape of tomatoes. Sprinkle inside with salt and invert to drain. Mix bread crumbs, celery and nuts. Add seasoning and melted butter and enough tomato pulp to make slightly moist. Fill each tomato with stuffing and arrange in a shallow baking pan. Cover tops with fine bread crumbs and put a dot of butter in the center of each. Bake about thirty minutes in a moderate oven. When done slide a spatula or broad cake turner under tomato and lift carefully to hot platter. Garnish with parsley and serve.

Pretty Wedding in Ashton Tomorrow

A quiet wedding of much interest to friends in Ashton and Dixon and vicinity will be solemnized at high noon Saturday at the parsonage to the Lutheran church in Ashton, when the pastor, Rev. F. W. Henke, will officiate at the marriage of Glenn H. Obourn, and Miss Alice M. Aschenbrenner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Aschenbrenner, both of Ashton.

The bride will be married in a smart early autumn ensemble in brown and her accessories will harmonize. She will wear a bridal corsage of bridal rose-buds and lilies.

Another event, honoring Miss Aschenbrenner was held Thursday when the Witzel family held a kitchen shower at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Witzel. Bunco formed the entertainment and the bride-to-be was the recipient of many useful gifts.

Miss Aschenbrenner will become the bride of Glen Obourn on Saturday of this week.

LADIES G. A. R. TO MEET MONDAY

The regular meeting of the Ladies of the G. A. R. will be held Monday evening, at 7:30, at the G. A. R. hall.

Choose Cosmetic Coloring Carefully

Don't let your own natural coloring stop you from wearing colors which your heart craves.

A famous American manufacturer of cosmetics says that any woman can wear any color—she chooses the proper cosmetics.

For example, you hear many girls say that they can't wear black and they can't wear white. They maintain that a combination of the two makes them look deathly. However, with proper shades of powder, rouge and lipstick, they can be worn becomingly.

You should have a powder that is slightly rachel in tone. See that its creamy lights are high ones. Rouge should be red with a hint of orange in it, and your lipstick should match the shade of the rouge.

Green eye shadow will give your eyes the brightness needed to wear black and white, and black mascara will make your eyes seem larger and brighter.

Age isn't important. Young girls can wear black dresses in a youthful manner and older women can wear all the vivid shades of green, red and blue without detracting from the beauty of their skins. The trick lies, not in the age of your complexion, but in the shades of cosmetics which you choose.

Walnut Royal Neighbors Picnic

The Royal Neighbors, Victory Camp of Walnut, held their annual picnic on Tuesday at the Grade school park. Forty Neighbors and guests were present and a picnic dinner was served at one o'clock. During the afternoon the district deputy, Mrs. Linda Rahn of LaSalle gave a very interesting talk. An invitation was extended to all members to be present at the Bureau County picnic at Alexander Park, Princeton, Aug. 24.

MISS GUITAR TO BE GUEST HERE—

Miss Florence Guitar of Columbia, Mo., will arrive Tuesday to be the guest of her friend, Miss Elizabeth Shaw at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben T. Shaw in Bluff Park. On Thursday Miss Shaw and guest plan to return to Columbia, where both girls attend the University of Missouri.

PICNIC FOR PALMYRA COMMUNITY CLUB TUESDAY—

Members and friends of the Palmyra Farm Bureau Community club are invited to a picnic to be held at Lowell Park next Tuesday. All are asked to bring well filled baskets to the outing and enjoy a day with neighbors and friends.

THE FRIENDLY SPIRIT OF THE OPEN ROAD.

One of the best ways to convince yourself that most of your fellow citizens are, after all, pretty friendly and kindly folk is to take a leisurely vacation tour by automobile.

Such a trip will bump you up against filling station employees, garage men, inn keepers, housewives who have "Rooms for Tourists" on signs in front of their homes, tea room hostesses, lunch counter waitresses, and an infinite variety of chance acquaintance in other automobiles. And nothing could be much more surprising, or pleasing, than the way in which 99 per cent of these people will turn out to be men and women whom you are glad to have for fellow-countrymen.

Maybe the automobile has brought a change in our national character; maybe the people of this country always were pretty nice; whichever way it is, there isn't any medicine much better for a man than the series of personal contacts that are during an extended motor tour.

Writers are fond of saying that Americans are hurried, discourteous, irritable, snappish and lacking in warmth. This may be so, in places; but the motorist usually has a different story to tell.

You can travel thousands of miles without finding for instance, a filling station man who doesn't go out of his way to be helpful and obliging. You could usually write on a postage stamp the names of all the people at overnight stopping places who are anything but exceedingly pleasant. A telephone booth could hold all of the peevish or inattentive waitresses you are likely to encounter.

And if you get through a moderately long trip without encountering a good many other tourists whom you would really like to know, you are far less fortunate than most.

All of this, of course, is an old story to anyone who has done much cross-country driving. But it is worth repeating, somehow; for it provides a wholesome and encouraging background for the day's grist of news, which now and then does get a little depressing.

Read the day's record of our follies, our crimes and our passions, and you sometimes are brought close to despair. Get out and see your fellow countrymen as only a roving motorist can see them, and you get back your faith.

NEW USE FOR A STADIUM.

Those who have found something slightly grotesque in the way American universities have spent vast sums on mammoth football stadia will doubtless be interested to read of the new use which authorities at Ohio State University have found for their institution's tremendous amphitheater.

One of the towers of this vast plant, it is announced, will be turned into a men's dormitory this fall to provide room and board for 75 students at a minimum cost. Rooms will be available at an exceptionally cheap rate, with meals at a correspondingly low figure; and President Geo. W. Rightmire says that this is being done to enable men of good scholarship and good character to attend the university in spite of the depression.

To the critics of "over emphasis" in college football, it will probably be gratifying to discover an instance in which a stadium is going to perform a genuinely useful collegiate function.

IL DUCE AND HIS DENTIST.

Dr. Arrigo Piperno of Rome has been private dentist for Mussolini for the last eight years; and now, visiting in Chicago, he asserts that Il Duce is the one man who never flinches or wriggles apprehensively while in the dentist's chair.

When the dentist remarks—with that sardonic chuckle reserved for such occasions—"Now, this may hurt a little," Mussolini simply squares his shoulders and says, "I do not fear pain." None of the dentist's gadgets ever bothers him; he even reads books while his teeth are being fixed.

Now this, somehow, strikes us as one story about Il Duce that is a bit hard to believe. Very likely the man does not "fear pain"—but what has that to do with being in the dentist's chair? It isn't exactly pain that a dentist inflicts; it is a weird combination of fright, misery and the kind of buzz-buzz business that puts teeth and nerves on edge. Is any man on earth capable of facing it the way Mussolini is said to face it?

The first thing to do once you arrive in any place is to sit down and catch your breath and take a nap if you feel so inclined.—Hendrik W. Van Loon, author.

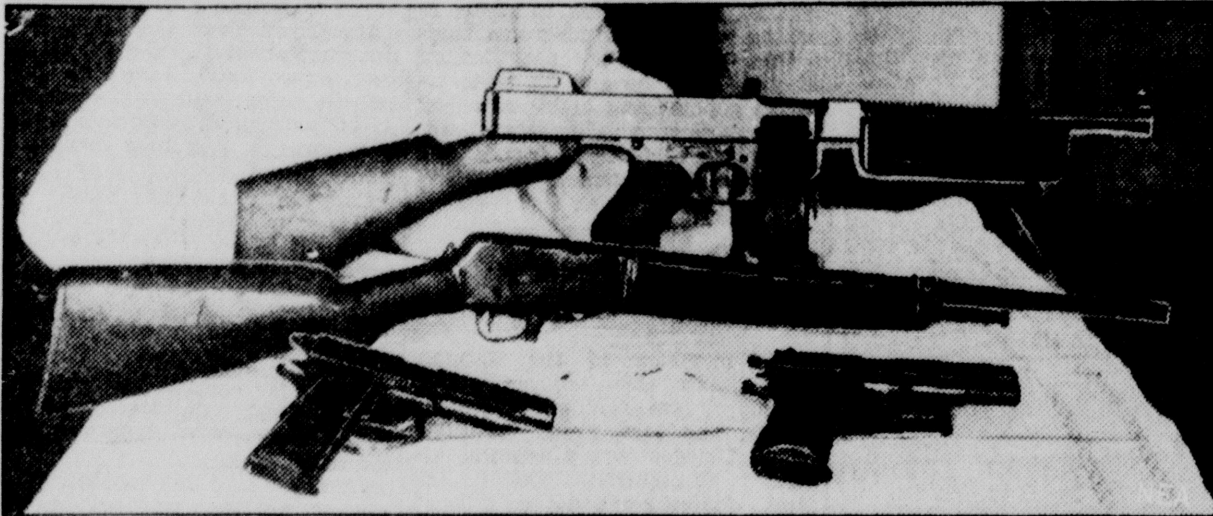

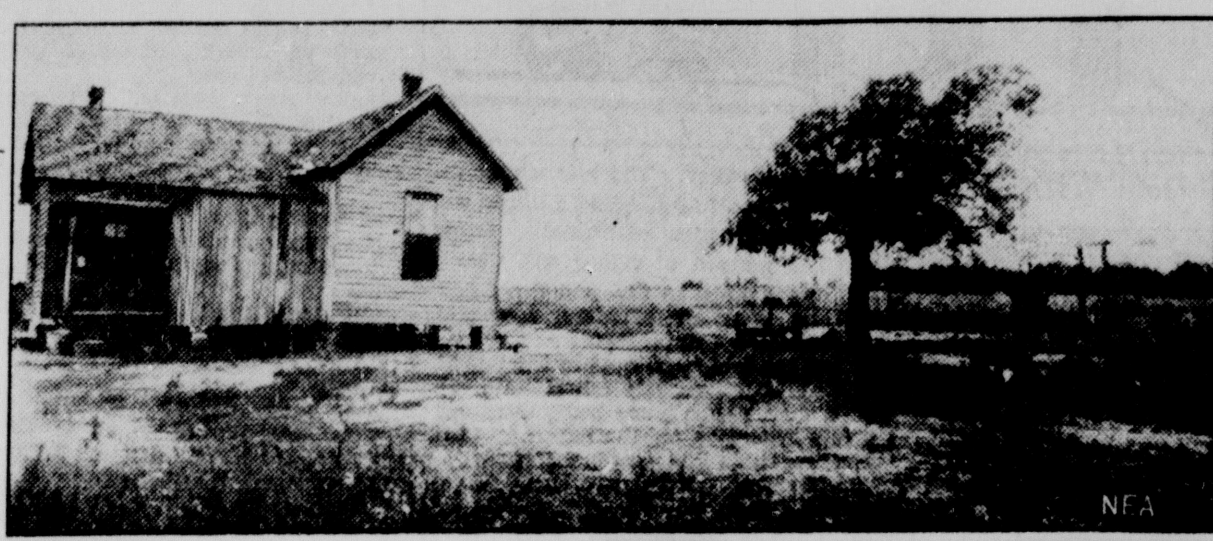

Dogs are the most affectionate of animals—the only animals that prefer the company of man to their own kind. Cats can't be trusted a second.—Dr. Glenn Adams, Cincinnati dog fancier.

I always suffer. Suffering seems to be what I do best.—Richard Barthelmess, movie actor.

An annual income of $100,000 is a sure symptom of social disease.—Rec. C. W. Tinsley of Cresson, Pa.

Churches that live in the past, die.—Dr. Paul Lindeman of St. Paul.

Urschel Kidnap 'Prison' Becomes Desperado's Trap

In the desolate shack pictured above, near Paradise, Texas, federal agents trapped Harvey J. Bailey, alleged ringleader in the $190,000 kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire, and four of Bailey's alleged accomplices. Urschel identified the shack as the one in which he was held prisoner; ransom money was found in Bailey's possession. Bailey also was a leader in the Memorial Day prison break at Kansas penitentiary and is accused of complicity in the Union station massacre in Kansas City in which four officers and a convict were killed. When agents surprised Bailey asleep he had hidden under his bedclothes the machine gun, automatic rifle, and pistols pictured below.

Everyday Religion

A FRIEND
By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

Many years ago a little girl used to come to the study of the City Temple in London, to play with the preacher. Joseph Parker had no children of his own, though he loved them just short of idolatry. A curious winding stairway ran up from the study to the vestry, and the little girl loved to climb up and slide down.

They were pals, the great preacher and the little girl. To others who disturbed his work he was often brusque, but not to his little friend. If she went away, he wrote her letters full of pictures, puzzles, and all sorts of fantastic fun. Some of his letters have been preserved, and to read them is to see how a little girl kept his heart childlike.

The little girl grew up to be a beautiful, brilliant woman, who wrote many stories under the pen name of John Oliver Hobbs. They were clever stories, in which clear insight mixed with keen-cutting wit—stimulating, like her personality. In one of her stories, entitled "Life for a Life," she wrote these golden words which many have remembered:

"Oh, the comfort, the inexpressible comfort of feeling safe with a person; having neither to weigh thoughts nor to measure words, but pour them all right out just as they are, chaff and grain together, knowing that a faithful hand will take and sift them, keep what is worth keeping, and with the breath of kindness blow the rest away."

Such friends are few, rare, and precious beyond words. A friend to whom we can bare our hearts without restraint and without regret, finding sympathy, understanding, encouragement, forgiveness, even wise rebuke, is the finest gift of God. He is another self. Fate gives us our relatives, but we make or find our friends, or they are made for us.

To be such a friend to another soul—"A cup of strength in some great agony," or just a pal to break the loneliness of existence—is the best blessing we can bring to a fellow man. Gold and gems are only trash compared to a real friend; one who knows our faults yet loves us, and by his faith in us makes us do and be our best.

Daily Health Talk

INTERMITTENT HEADACHES

Intermittent headaches sometimes are called migraine. This term is applied to a common malady, of which the essential characteristic is recurring, intense headaches often associated with vomiting and with peculiar disturbances of vision.

It is known that migraine is more common among women than men. The usual history of the disease is that it appears early in youth, that it tends to diminish in severity after middle life and frequently disappears in old age.

It is known that migraine-like headaches are associated with diseases of the kidneys, cerebral tumors, infections of the sinuses, abscessed teeth, faulty vision and badly fitted glasses.

There are a number of cases of migraine which can be traced to so-called protein sensitivity and to what is popularly termed intestinal intoxication.

A large number of cases of intermittent headache are associated with menstruation. The sufferers report that the headache appears either a day or so or several hours before or simultaneously with the onset of menstruation.

It has been demonstrated that the pituitary gland of internal secretion located at the base of the brain is functionally related to the ovaries and, hence, with menstruation.

The fact that these cases of intermittent headache were so closely associated with menstruation suggested that some abnormality of the pituitary might perhaps be at the basis of the headaches.

In a number of cases studied it was found that the bony structure in which the pituitary gland is placed was abnormally developed, so that when in response to the normal cycle the gland swelled, pressure resulted and hence the severe headaches.

By the injection of a quantity of hormone derived from the ovaries of animals it was found possible to free the patients either completely or appreciably from their periodic headaches. Presumably this hormone affects the pituitary, causing it to shrink somewhat.

Sidelights In News In Capital
Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—As Uncle Sam mobilizes his forces for a nationwide war on crime, pledged to fight to the end to rid the country of kidnapers and racketeers, a youthful and enthusiastic man at the Department of Justice is getting ready for battle.

He is J. Edgar Hoover, director of the newly created division of investigation.

Hoover's name does not figure as prominently perhaps in the news of this great drive the government is planning as do some of the others.

Moves of Professor Raymond Moley, President Roosevelt's special investigator, are noted. Attorney General Cummings' utterances on the subject are made known.

But it is upon the shoulders of Hoover that much of the responsibility for dealing with the criminal element rests. He and his division will be, so to speak, the executive officers of the high command.

THE LAW'S 'PUNCH'

The others will do the planning. Hoover represents the strong arm of the law.

"Crime," says the young director, "cannot be fought effectively until we know the extent, nature and geographical concentration of it. The best way to diagnose it is to collect statistics on it."

As the result of his crusading for definite information on crime his organization has succeeded in amassing the largest fingerprint file of criminals in the world—3,800,000 sets. More than 6,000 agencies here and abroad have and are contributing to this collection of statistics.

SETTING A HIGH SCORE

Last year his agents set a record of 95.51 per cent convictions in cases where they secured Federal indictments.

Of the 17 kidnaping and extortion cases the Federal officers have investigated since the Lindbergh case there were 15 in which the perpetrators were caught. There have been convictions in 12 of the cases and three trials are pending.

The various agencies of his division are prepared to cooperate to the fullest in the war on crime which the President has declared.

AN ANTI-CRIME SCHOOL

Hoover has developed the division of identification which includes the national crime laboratory, the crime statistics collection service and the officers' training school.

His men are all trained. Four years ago when he began the officers' training school, not only were the new officers put through six weeks of training in the most recent scientific methods of detection, but he called in all the old ones in the service and required them to study.

The most interesting thing about

"The Mirrors of Wall Street," by an acidulous and anonymous author, is not so much its series of biting portraits of Wall Street's big wigs, as its discussion of Wall Street's responsibility for the current depression.

Wall Street bankers, says this writer, fought bitterly against the establishment of the Federal Reserve system. They did not want the nation's purse controlled by the several sections of the country, with general supervision from Washington. They wanted one central bank, with full control in Wall Street.

Under Harding this writer continues, they got their wish. They came into control of the Federal Reserve, transformed it—to all intents and purposes—into a central bank and used it to do the very things that the system had been designed to prevent! They created the inflation let it get out of hand, and then failed utterly to avert the inevitable collapse.

Thus, at any rate, says our author. The line of argument he advances may interest you.

So, too, may his brief portraits of Wall Street's headlines—Mills, Morgan, Lamont, Mitchell, Dillon, Rockefeller, Baruch, Aldrich, Mellon, Chrysler and the rest. These do not pretend to be more than thumbnail sketches but they are very neatly done. There is a drop or two of venom in some of the paragraphs. Our author seems to have practically no veneration for our financial wizards.

GEHRIG'S NEW RECORD FAILS TO HELP YANKS

Lou Becomes Newest "Iron Man": Yanks Drop Behind

(By HUGH S. FULLERTON)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
While the New York Yankees were finding that Lou Gehrig's brand new major league endurance record, established yesterday when "Buster Lou" played his 1,508th consecutive game with a minimum of ceremony, was about the only bright spot they have seen on their current western trip, Washington's Senators were equaling a record of sorts and at the same time learning that Monte Weaver can be of great assistance to them in their pennant drive.

Weaver, who was rendered inactive during the large part of the season by a sore arm, let the Chicago White Sox down with four hits to win his third straight victory since he got back into service by a 14-1 score. It was the ninth in a row for the Senators, equaling the season's long run mark, made by the Yankees.

Browns Beat Yanks
The fact that Gehrig became the official major league "iron man" by surpassing the record set by Everett Scott, a Yankee shortstop before Lou broke into the big league, and Babe Ruth's celebration of the end of his two day vacation by busting his 27th homer of the season still couldn't save the Yanks from a 7-6, ten inning defeat by the St. Louis Browns. Lefty Gomez failed to hold the Browns. Rogers Hornsby belted a pinch homer to tie the score in the ninth and Jim Leyland doubled in the tenth to send Oscar Melillo home with the winning run. The loss put the Yanks 7 1-2 games behind Washington.

Gehrig received a silver cup from William Harridge, American League President, as he carried his unbroken string of games which started when he went in as a pinch hitter on June 1, 1925, to its record length.

Senators Hit Hard
The Senators, riding high along the road toward the pennant, valiantly won an old nemesis Walter Miller and three successors for 16 runs behind Weaver's near perfect flinging.

The Cleveland Indians continued to make life miserable for the Philadelphia Athletics, plastering out 19 hits for 33 bases off George Earnshaw, and three throwers who followed him to win the series final, 15 to 4. The victory gave them exclusive possession of fourth place as the combination of Bob Weiland's five hit twirling and Elton Auker's wildness gave the Boston Red Sox a 6-2 victory over Detroit.

Giants Increase Lead
The New York Giants again improved their position in the National League, taking another game from Cincinnati by a 7-2 count while the weather kept their leading rivals inactive. The Giants rapped Ben Frey for five runs in the first inning and made it easy for Bud Parmelee by pulling off five double plays.

The second place Pittsburgh Pirates and third place Chicago Cubs were rained out at Brooklyn and Boston, respectively, giving the Giants a 4 1-2 game lead over the Buccaneers.

Boston's illness enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to gain a tie for fourth place by a game marked by home run swatting. Joe Medwick walloped two homers and Jim Collins on for the Cards while Chuck Klein countered with his 20th of the season. A six run outburst in the fifth put the game on ice for St. Louis.

GEHRIG'S RECORD
New York, Aug. 18—(AP)—Here are a few of the high spots in the major league career of Lou Gehrig, who added another record to his list yesterday by playing his 1,508th consecutive game for the Yankees at St. Louis yesterday to break the major league mark set by Everett Scott:

Set American League record for runs batted in with 174 in 1927; broke it with 184 in 1931.

Became first major league player to hit three homers in a game on three different occasions, performing the feat on June 23, 1927.

QUEEN HELEN IS ONLY TENNIS STAR APPARENTLY SAFE.

Other Women In Title Tourney Have Work Cut Out Today

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer
New York, Aug. 18—(AP)—After three days of sparring around against inferior opposition, eight survivors in the women's national tennis championships at Forest Hills found themselves locked in a battle royal today where everybody was hitting for keeps.

All four quarter-final matches promised to be hard fought, and with the exception of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, there wasn't a one of the girls with any kind of a guarantee she would be among those present when the roll was called at nightfall.

There were few, if any, ready to predict that Mrs. Moody would drop a set in her match with Mary Healey of England. The seven-time winner from California has come to be regarded as something of a lion among the lambs. But the winner of the other three matches was about a toss-up.

Alice Given Chance
Alice Marble, the blonde San Franciscan, who takes a terrific chance of upsetting Betty Nuthall of England, winner of the 1930 tournament. Miss Marble had lost only four games in her first three matches, while the British star was well extended to put out Carolin Babcock, 6-4, 6-4, yesterday.

Dorothy Round, the British Sunday school teacher who won a set from Mrs. Moody at Wimbledon, appeared to have her work cut out for her against Sarah Palfrey, the Boston girl who almost overnight has become an important figure in women's tennis.

Have Work Cut Out

Helen Jacobs, the defending champion, was paired against her closest friend in tennis circles, Josephine Crickshank of Santa Ana, Calif., and it looked like a tough day for Helen. Josephine turned loose a dazzling game yesterday to sweep aside Peggy Scriven of England with the loss of only three games, while Helen dropped seven before she turned back Freda James of England, who is considered a far inferior player to Miss Scriven.

With the doubles tourney still in the second round, Mrs. Moody, and her veteran English partner, Elizabeth Ryan, and the combination of Miss Jacobs and Miss Palfrey looked like the teams to beat. They won by identical scores of 6-1, 6-1 yesterday. Mrs. Moody and Miss Ryan beating Eunice Dean of San Antonio and Louise Hofmeister of Chicago and the Jacobs-Palfrey team eliminating the strong combination of Baroness Maud Lev of New York and Virginia Rice of Boston.

BABE TO GIVE OWNERS BREAK NEXT SEASON

Bambino Says He'll Not Sign Unless He Feels Fit

St. Louis, Aug. 18—(AP)—Unless the aging Babe Ruth (baseball speaking) feels as if he can play the entire season next year, the New York Yankees management needn't worry about compensating him for all the 154 games.

This great home run slugger revealed while here with the Yankees for their series with the St. Louis Browns.

Asked if his layoff during the first part of the series was any indication that he planned to retire in 1934, the Babe replied: "I can't answer that, because I don't know. But one thing is certain—I'm not going to sign a contract for next year unless I feel that I can play the full season. It would not be fair to the owners to sign for a full year and then play only a third of the season."

After appearing only as a pinch hitter during the first two games of the Yankee-Brown series, Ruth returned to the lineup yesterday and hammered out his 27th home run in the Athletics has done better during the current race.

The veteran thought the two day's layoff would do him some good, as he had been in a batting slump recently.

Ruth's contract has been one of the big worries of the Yankee management.

DODGERS' ASKED FOR ACCOUNTING IN COURT ACTION

Heirs of Charles Ebets, Late Owner, Appeal To Court

New York, Aug. 18—(AP)—The affairs of the Brooklyn National League baseball club, a source of many and complicated disputes among the owners of the franchise since the death of Charles H. Ebets in 1925, again have been brought into the courts.

The Ebets heirs yesterday obtained a court order compelling the executors of the Ebets estate and the directors of the ball club to show cause why they should not be examined concerning various affairs of the club, notably its purchases of minor league properties.

The petitioners, Charles H. Ebets, Mrs. Anna Marie Ebets, Booth, Genevieve M. Booth and Frank H. Booth, stated the club has lost $30,000 in the operation of minor league clubs, a policy which was opposed by Ebets when he lived. They also said the value of the estate has declined from $1,066,814 in 1930 to $839,468 at present. They asked the details of a $200,000 loan made to the club by the Brooklyn Trust Company, which is listed among the executors of the Ebets estate.

Harmon Will Play Two Games Sunday

WESTERN POLO STAR FLYING TO "RESCUE" TEAM

Eric Pedey Is Summoned From Coast To Play In Sunday's Match

Chicago, Aug. 18—(AP)—Eric Pedey of California—Totally Hitchcock's personal choice as the greatest number one in polo, was flying out of the west today to ride against Hitchcock's easterners in the final match of the intersectional championship series Sunday.

When Hubert W. (Rube) Williams, the west's fiery back, suffered a fracture of his right leg as the east won Wednesday's match, 12 to 8, his team's chances of winning the series appeared blasted. But Pedey, who was unable to make the trip with the western team, was revealed upon to lend his aid and last night left Los Angeles by airplane.

Pedey, who started playing polo in 1910, reached the heights in the 1930 international matches against the British. In the second match he scored eight goals for a record in international play, which inspired Hitchcock to call him the "greatest number one I have ever seen." He was alternate in the 1924 international series, and the same year played with the Midwest four which won the open, junior Pacific coast circuit and open championships. He also shared in titles as a member of the Hurricanes, Greentree and Sands Point teams.

Taking a leaf from Hitchcock's book, Manager Carleton Burke of the western team, said he would have no announcement concerning his new lineup, until match time Sunday. Hitchcock withheld announcement of his plans, after his four lost to the west, 15 to 11, last Sunday, and Wednesday popped up with Earle A. S. Hopping in place of Michael Phillips. Hopping's fine play had a lot to do with the victory that gave the east an even break in the series.

Veteran polo observers believed that Pedey would play at number one, although he is capable of working at any position, with Elmer Boeske at back in place of the injured Williams. Cecil Smith, they figured, would remain at number three, with Aiden Roark moving from one, to number two.

Many Old Timers In Sunday's Game Are Known In City

Numerous inquiries have been received by Ward Miller, about the baseball game in Chicago Sunday between former major league stars and veterans of semi-pro teams of that vicinity, many of whom visited Dixon several years ago playing with the old Dixon Browns.

The double header game will be played at the Mills Stadium Sunday afternoon, the first game being called at 1:30 (DST) in which the major veterans will oppose the semi-pro vets. This will be followed by a game between the crack Altoona, Pa. semi-pro organization and the Mills team. The Mills Stadium is located on Lake street and Klipatrick avenue and any who desire reservations are urged to notify Ward Miller as soon as convenient.

Veteran Marathon Star Wins Another

Cleveland, Aug. 18—(AP)—Number nineteen was in the bag for Clarence De Mar today.

The veteran marathon runner led a field of thirty starters along a 26 mile, 385 yard route through Cleveland streets and parks yesterday to win an Irish Day race in 2 hours and 54 minutes. It was his 15th victory in 25 years of competition.

Periodically during the race the 45-year-old De Mar drenched his head with a cup of water.

He finished five minutes ahead of Percy Weyer of Toronto, Ont.

Hooks and Slides

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER
The Big Ride—

Baseball always has been a big merry-go-round. A few of the players get a nice long ride and even catch the brass ring, but for most of them it's just a half dozen turns, a few ineffectual grabs at that brass ring, and then they go whirling off into the minors and day-labor.

But it's the coming up into the big time and the going down into the bushes that makes fodder for old Gus Pan, who has nothing to lose but his three cents.

New faces are coming up into the big time at a great rate these days, as the managers make a strenuous effort to get a line on their next year's effort by actually seeing the bushers in action.

Coming Events—

Connie Mack's wobbling Athletics have a sprinkling of new faces that forecast a big shakeup this winter. It's been pretty clear that the A's aren't going anywhere as they are at present. It's the old story that after you've built up a winner, here's nothing to do but break it up and start all over.

The youngsters at Philly seem to have drunk deeply of the "take it easy" spirit which veteran teams almost always have. Mack, still carrying on at 70 (he is the oldest man ever to manage a major league club) is turning to youth again in the A's, though it's a question whether Connie can continue long enough to build another winner.

Mack is pretty keen for the Texas collegian, Frank Higley, and he is planning to bring back Finney, the youth he's grooming for Al Simmon's place. Madjeski, catcher, and Williams, shortstop, look as though they're good for a few more turns on the merry-go-round, but Mack wants young pitchers. So you can look forward to a few new faces in his pitching corps.

Charlie Grimm's action in buying Adolph Camilli from Sacramento to take Grimm's own job is another example. Camilli is a big, powerful boy with a natural swing and a graceful fielding style he developed on the sandlots.

COUZENS TELLS HIS STORY ABOUT BANKING CRISIS

Michigan Senator's Side Of Fight Is Given To Jury

Detroit, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Senator James Couzens, (R. Mich.) testifying before the Detroit bank investigating jury today, said he had been asked by then President Hoover during the last political campaign to issue "for political purposes," a statement approving of the loan of $9,000,000 to the Chicago bank of which Charles G. Dawes was head.

Mr. Couzens, the Senator, said, "I wanted the statement for political purposes." The request, he said, came in a telephone call from the White House.

"I said I would be glad to do so if he got an opinion from his Attorney General that I would not be violating the law," said Couzens.

"All loans had been confidential until about July 15, when a law was passed requiring the Reconstruction Finance Corp. to report to Congress on all loans made in secrecy."

The Michigan Senator said that while his statement of approval was not formally issued, he did approve the Dawes loan.

Told "Inside" Story
"The nation was shocked when it leaked out from some source unknown to me that Dawes, former President of the R. F. C., had got a loan from the R. F. C. of $9,000,000," Couzens said. "Of course, the party that was out of power capitalized on that."

Senator Couzens, relating "the inside story" of the Michigan banking crisis, informed the jury that although he told President Hoover he would "denounce" the loan of $9,000,000 to a Detroit bank group, it was the Federal law governing Reconstruction Finance Corp. loans that really prevented such a grant.

The loan, previous witnesses have told the bank jury would have prevented the Michigan banking holiday.

The Michigan Senator said the R. F. C. had secured assets, offered as valued at $37,700,000. He declared the deposit liability of the Union Guardian Trust Co., for which the loan was sought, was $20,500,000.

"The law says very explicitly that every R. F. C. loan must have 'full and adequate' security," he said.

"Every Federal official having to do with the Detroit banking situation from the President down, was of the opinion that the security offered by representatives of the Union Guardian was adequate only for a loan up to $37,500,000. The law prohibited loaning more."

"PLAYS" COLOR AND LIGHT WITH MUSIC

A new kind of show, synchronizing color, light and music as a prelude and setting for motion pictures is Standard Oil's contribution to A Century of Progress Exposition.

The motion pictures, which are also thrown from the red crown on four large screens at once tell the story of oil, described by a poet in one of the inscriptions as "the power that moves the wheels of tractors, turbines, automobiles."

The complicated electrical equipment by which the show is developed is operated almost without human action by the playing of a single record in a controlphone system. The record gives the cue to each piece of equipment as its turn is reached and cuts it out when it has played its part.

A meteor that is white hot on the outside may be 400 degrees below zero inside.

As Senate Racketeering Committee Opened Probe

A Federal crime bureau to co-ordinate efforts of local authorities in combatting racketeering was suggested to the Senate subcommittee on racketeering when, as shown here, it met for its first regional hearing in New York. Among the 50 noted criminologists and police executives in attendance were (1) New York's Police Commissioner James S. Boland; (2) Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York, chairman of the committee; (3) Joseph B. Keenan of Cleveland, special assistant to the Attorney General; (4) Former New York Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney; and (5) Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley, recently assigned by President Roosevelt to advise on the Administration's anti-racket campaign.

Goldenrods cause only a small percentage of hay fever suffering; trees, animal hair, glue, horn-rimmed spectacles, molds and dust also bring it about.

Senators Acquire Gray On Waivers

St. Louis, Aug. 17 —(AP)—Release of Sam Gray, veteran right hand pitcher, to the Washington Senators on waivers, was announced today by the St. Louis Browns.

Gray, who will be 34 years old in November, was serving his sixth season with the Browns. His record for this season is six victories and three defeats, based on relief work mostly. In 1928 he won 20 games and lost 12.

Disposal of Gray is the second change in personnel since Rogers Hornsby took charge of the Browns. The other deal was the trade of Catcher Jack Crouch to Cincinnati for Catcher Rollo Hemsley.

Philosophy Of Japan's Leaders In Its Recent Campaigns Is Revealed

Minister Of War Interprets Country's Position Today

EDITOR'S NOTE: To the political philosophy of the "new" Japan, born out of the Manchurian and North China campaigns, there has been given, in the recent comparative calm, the test of deliberative thought by her statesmen.

From the events of the past year, during which Japan boldly announced a duty incumbent upon her to risk world censure in adjusting long standing difficulties with China, Lt. Gen. Sadao Araki, Minister of War, emerged as the

Talks To A. P. Chief

Recently a business matter called Kent Cooper, General Manager of The Associated Press, to Japan. He visited Gen. Araki at the War office where he was introduced by Yukichi Iwaaga, director of the Shimbun Rengo Sha, Japanese news agency fashioned after The Associated Press. Gen. Araki's cordiality and frank replies to questions, not designed for a formal interview, led to consent to their publication as an answer to a general American perplexity about Japanese policies respecting China.

The Associated Press has just received the results of this interview in two articles of the War Minister's authorship, and presents them in two parts.

Japanese Leader Talks

Following is the first of two striking statements:

By Lt. Gen. Sadao Araki, Minister of War of Japan

"The Japanese empire has no apologies to offer the world for what critics abroad have considered the drastic and abrupt action her armies have taken in Manchuria and more recently in North China. Such criticism clearly indicates either ignorance or unwillingness to understand the history of the past generation, especially with reference to Japan's relations with China and with the rest of the world.

It is perhaps just as well that Japan's action has impressed the world as strong, direct and perhaps more drastic than circumstances warranted, for in this way it may lead to study and understanding of the events which have led to Japan's present situation.

Japan, not of her own free will, was drawn into the international scheme in the middle of the last century, and a generation ago began her education in international dealings in the hard school conducted by the great European empires. The lessons of this school we learned to our cost.

Learned Self-Reliance

Alike in the period of realistic, secret diplomacy, and in the era of so-called open diplomacy which succeeded it after the Great War, with its lip-service to peace and its accumulation of pacts and peace machinery, we learned from bitter experience that reliance on our own strength, foresight, tenacity and courage was the only safe method for the defense of our independence, our vital interests and our rights.

For a generation Japan tried to follow a policy of co-operation with the western world in its search for peace and stability, subscribed to its pacts, joined its organizations. All this helped us in none of our real problems. International accords, international combinations have helped Japan in none of her times of need, but often they have been invoked against her.

Take Spoils of War

Japan was provoked into war with China in 1894 and while an astounded world looked on we defeated that decadent empire. China then ceded us the Liaoting Peninsula. In 1896 three great European empires—Russia, Germany and France—compelled us by threats to relinquish this prize. Within the next three years Russia had occupied that same peninsula by virtue of treaties with China, which gave the Czar also the right to build railways across Manchuria and which bound Russia and China in alliance against Japan; Germany had occupied Tsingtau, Great Britain Weihaiwei and France Kwangchowan.

For years we have sought only peace and friendship with America. Nearly two decades of controversy, beginning with the anti-Japanese land and school agitations in California, reached its climax in 1924 when the American government brusquely abrogated its gentlemen's agreement with us and adopted an absolute exclusion of our people as immigrants, branding them as racially inferior.

We fought loyally on the side of the allies in the Great War. At the peace conference the great powers of Europe and America refused recognition of our racial equality. For two decades we fulfilled loyally all the responsibilities of our alliance with Great Britain in 1922 the British empire, desiring the favor of the United States, then grown to unprecedented wealth and power, summarily abrogated the alliance. Today our people are practically barred from migrating to the vast semi-filled spaces of the British dominions, Canada and Australia. More recently there has been a determined effort to bar even our goods from the British empire.

Trouble Of Old Standing

The troubles between Japan and China in Manchuria were the culmination of twenty years marked by China's unceasing efforts to interfere with and nullify Japan's legitimately acquired rights and interests. We Japanese brooked all kinds of obstruction, insults, even violence, with the utmost patience. In later years, however, China's tactics became more and more oppressive and obstructive, until they could be tolerated no longer.

What reason had we to hope in this crisis that redress could be obtained from the nations which had never helped us in our emergencies of the past? Still fresh in our memories the incidents of Nikolaievsk a port at the mouth of the Amur River in eastern Siberia where in March, 1928, more than 600 Japanese soldiers and civilians,

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

EVE HAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, married DICK RADER, a construction superintendent. They keep their marriage secret. Dick opposes Eve's continued employment but she is determined to go on working.

On her wedding night Eve is sent to New York to meet FRED CARTER, dress buyer. There Eve meets THURGOOD REECE, who is much attracted by her. She visits IRENE PRENTISS, former schoolmate, who is playing the stock market.

A week later Eve returns to Lake City to find a new copy writer, MONA ALLEN, at the office. Mona is a trouble-maker.

Eve and Dick take an apartment in an old-fashioned house. When from working overtime at the office, Eve arrives there one evening to find a note telling her Dick has gone to a meeting. There is a knock at the door.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

THE knock on the door was repeated. "Who's there?" Eve called firmly, her voice concealing her nervousness.

"Mrs. Brooks," a cheery voice responded.

Eve opened the door to allow her to enter. "We are having a little bridge party in Miss McElhinney's room," Mrs. Brooks explained. "We'd like to have you join us. There are just three of us—Miss McElhinney, Miss Leeds and myself."

Eve had seen the two school-mates who had rooms on the floor above—fluffy little Dorothy McElhinney who left a trail of spicy perfume behind her in the hall and Abigail Leeds, precise and intellectual looking, who seemed always laden with books and papers.

It would serve Dick right, Eve told herself, if he found her absent when he returned. And, though she was tired, she thought the evening with her new neighbors might prove entertaining and make her feel less lonely than if she stayed in her own apartment.

"Just give me 10 minutes," she smiled, "and I'll be with you."

The effect of the bright frock she chose and the carefully applied make-up tended to lift her spirits and already she felt less weary as she made her way up the long flight of stairs to Miss McElhinney's open door.

The three women sat about a marble topped table with cards spread out before them. Mrs. Brooks hastened to introduce Eve.

"Sit down," urged Miss McElhinney. "We were just playing 'crazy bridge' while we waited for you. I'm so glad you came up. We thought you might prefer a little game with us to spending the evening alone."

Eve graciously took her place. But she was disturbed. What did Miss McElhinney mean? Was there malice there? How did that girl know Dick was to be absent all evening? Had he told her? This rekindled her resentment against Dick and her attention wandered from the game.

"Your turn, Mrs. Rader," said Mrs. Brooks. "Just before Miss McElhinney came here I discarded the bed and worked out an idea of my own. I bought a good spring and had legs put on it. Then I bought a mattress and some chintz and fixed up that studio couch. It makes the room look more like a living room and it's ever so comfortable."

Eve felt she was a stupid bridge partner, but she did not care.

She returned home soon after midnight, thinking she would find Dick there before her. Indeed, she had lingered a little upstairs to give him plenty of time to return. Perhaps it would do him good to come home and find her away.

But Dick was not there. The place seemed dismal in spite of the bright new paint and pretty furnishings. Eve stood at the sink and looked with dismay at the stack of unwashed dishes. She took an apron from a hook behind the kitchen screen and was about to put it on. Then she hung it away again. She would leave the dishes until morning. She would get up early and wash them. She was sleepy, tired and cross, and decided to go to bed.

She had not enjoyed the bridge game and was aggrieved that Dick could find pleasure in an evening spent away from her. If he was beginning so early in their marriage to find diversion elsewhere, what could it mean except that he was tiring of his home?

Eve found, however, that she was too tired and nervous to go to sleep. She tossed restlessly from side to side for an hour or more. She was worried now about Dick. Perhaps something had happened to him. She felt sure that a lodge meeting would be over before midnight. The last time she looked at her alarm clock it was a quarter after one. Then, presently, she slept.

She awoke to the sound of the brisk stropping of Chan's old-fashioned razor. She had argued with him about the time consumed by this task but he merely laughed, his eyes twinkling. Well, she would buy him a new razor. Christmas would serve as an excuse. Bixby's had advertised a tricky new safety razor with gold trimmings. She wasn't going to have that ugly leather strop hanging in her bathroom.

After a little the fragrance of coffee drifted in from the kitchen. Eve remembered the unwashed dishes and reluctantly got out of bed. For the first time since her marriage she almost wished that she had given up her work at Bixby's as Dick had asked her to do. It would be pleasant to stay at home today.

She found Dick cheerful but hurried. He did not wait to eat breakfast. "Have to scram," he said, hastily draining a cup of coffee. "I'm late. I'll grab a sandwich somewhere if I can find time for it after the work is under way." Then he kissed her absentmindedly and was gone.

HE had made no explanation of his absence the night before and her pride had prevented her from questioning him. Hurt and indignant, Eve made some toast and poured a cup of the now lukewarm coffee. But she could not eat. Swiftly she cleared the table and washed last night's dishes, but in spite of her haste she was a half hour late in reaching the office.

"Oh, Miss Bayless!" Mona Allen called to her as she entered. "Mr. Barnes has been looking everywhere for you."

Eve ignored this thrust. Arlene, emerging from Barnes' office a few minutes later, handed Eve some proofs to correct. Fastened to them with a paper clip was a hastily penciled note from Arlene. "Get these out of the way as quickly as possible," it read. "His highness is wild about something."

Later Eve and Arlene speculated on the cause of Barnes' display of temper—a thing most unusual for him.

"I think Mr. Bixby's been taking a hand in running the office again," Arlene confided. "I know he thinks expenses in our department are higher than they need to be and higher than the volume of this year's Christmas selling warrants. Wonder what the outcome will be? Barnes was on the point of resigning last year and he only agreed to stay on condition that Mr. Bixby promised a hands-off policy toward the advertising office. Sometimes I think Mr. Bixby wouldn't care much if Barnes did resign. He might get a new manager who would work for less and wouldn't object to his suggestions."

All this was food for thought for Eve and she renewed her efforts to make good in a conspicuous way. If Earle Barnes resigned or if he were forced to quit, perhaps Mr. Bixby would put her in charge of the department. While she had, from the first, hoped that eventually she would receive this promotion, she had not expected that it might come about so soon. But why not, she argued with herself. Several of the specialty shops in Lake City had women advertising managers.

Eve did not tell Dick about this possibility. She suspected that he would not like it. Oh, he would be proud of her ability, of course; but he would not approve of her going into anything which was certain to take so much of her time and interest. Nevertheless she resolved that after the holidays, whether Dick approved the step or not, she would begin to attend night school again and review the course she had taken in advertising. She wondered, too, what salary Mr. Bixby would be likely to pay her. Not so much—not nearly so much as Barnes was getting—but considerably more than she now received. And, characteristically, Eve began to plan what she would do with this added money.

SHE hurried through her work that day, determined to get home on time. She longed for Dick's arms around her. Longed for this odd, silent barrier that suddenly had come between them to be cleared away.

But Dick was not to be surprised or wheedled into an explanation of his absence the night before. When she mentioned that she had been invited to Miss McElhinney's room for a game of bridge he asked absently if she had enjoyed it. Later when she asked, making her voice as casual as possible, if he had had a nice time at the lodge meeting he replied briefly, "Oh, good enough," and immediately changed the subject.

Aside from that he was even more considerate than usual, suggesting that they should meet down town after work that evening, have dinner and perhaps go somewhere to dance or see a movie. And on this occasion he was so devoted, so like the Dick he had been before and immediately after their marriage, that Eve was ashamed of her suspicions.

Next evening he called up shortly before the store closed to tell Eve he would not be home for dinner and that she should not wait up for him as he might be rather late. Immediately Eve's suspicions were aroused anew. His explanation for this absence was that all the executives in charge of the construction job on which he was engaged were having dinner together to be followed by a conference concerning their work.

She went home, locked the door, and after making herself a cup of tea and a sandwich, turned off the lights in the living room, shut herself up in the bedroom and tried to read herself to sleep.

It was nearly one o'clock before Dick came home. Eve, who was wide awake, closed her eyes and pretended that she was asleep, though she scorned herself for pretense and was furious at Dick for making the pretense seem necessary. What was their marriage coming to, she asked herself over and over again.

CHIMPANZEES AS WELL AS BABIES HAVE "BABINSKI"

Big Toe Reflex Not Confined Solely To Human Beings

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

New Haven, Conn. (AP)—The "sign of Babinski," a big toe reflex once considered exclusively human, has been found in chimpanzees at Yale University Institute of Human Relations.

The discovery gives medical scientists a bit of information of potential value in studying human nervous disorders. It also bridges another gap in evolution. Tickle a baby's instep and the big toe will try to turn upward, instead of curling downward like an adult's reaction. That toe upturning is the "sign of Babinski." The name is from Joseph Babinski, French physician who discovered the reflex about 30 years ago.

Symptom Of Nervous Trouble
In babies it is a healthy sign of the stage of still incomplete development of the higher nervous centers. But later in life the "sign" disappears, except during deep sleep. Reappearance of the "Babinski" in adult waking hours is an important symptom of nervous disorders.

The sign points directly to trouble in the brain, in the nerve centers which transmit control of bodily movements. In the world war many soldiers showed the "Babinski" after head injuries. It is a symptom of the stumbling trouble called Little's disease.

Now come the Yale experiments in which the sign emphasizes how brains probably developed in evolution. The studies were made by John F. Fulton, M. D., professor of physiology, Yale School of Medicine, and Allen D. Keller, professor of physiology, University of Alabama.

Found In Chimpanzees
Beginning with the lower forms of monkeys, they watched for the "sign of Babinski" to appear as a result of brain injuries. But nothing like the sign was detected from such injuries until they had advanced up the evolutionary intelligence ladder to the chimpanzees, which with gorillas, occupy the rung just below man.

Speculative scientific writing heretofore has attributed the "Babinski" in man to an atavistic reversion to the dim past when he lived in trees. Then he was thought to have had an "opposable" big toe, one which could be used like a thumb in grasping. Dr. Fulton says the Yale studies show that this belief is a fallacy.

"As yet," the report of the scientists states, "we have no suggestions to offer as to the ultimate atavistic reflex of the reflex." The normal reflex, when the toe curls downward, generally is believed to be a protective mechanism. It is part of the motion of jerking the sole away from injury in stepping upon a sharp object.

WEST BROOKLYN

By HENRY GEHANT

West Brooklyn—Do not fail to attend the first annual flower show given at the school hall this Saturday. Everything is free and the affair is sponsored by the ladies of the domestic science club.

Raymond Michel is spending the week at Waukegan visiting at the home of his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Simms.

Rev. Urban Halmaier was up from Maytown Wednesday evening advertising his picnic on Labor Day.

Misses Lolita and Zella Koehler and Gerald Koehler motored to Sterling Wednesday where they attended for Gerald to attend a business college having won a scholarship recently.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH
Dr. Gilbert Stansell, pastor of the First M. E. Church, today announced three special Sundays, beginning this Sunday, which will have an international character. Dr. Joseph Beech, Chancellor of Union University of Chentui, China, whose family makes its home in this city while he is on the opposite side of the world, will be the speaker. The Board of Governors of this large institution live in China, Canada, England and the United States, and of necessity Dr. Beech comes in contact with a large portion of the civilized world. His message Sunday morning will be of special interest to all in the environs of Dixon.

August 27 will be known as "Farmer's Day" at the church. There are 53 families living on farms around Dixon, some members of which are members of the Methodist church. There are many other farmers' families somewhat related to this church, and its school. All these are being asked to take their dinner and go to the church for the session of the school at 9:45 and the public worship at 10:45. Dr. Stansell will speak on the "Christ of the Fields." After this service all will go to the down-stairs rooms for a fine picnic dinner. The Young Men's Bible Class will provide ample table space for all and will serve coffee. An urgent invitation is being pressed home to all Methodist farmer folk to attend and take all the children. They will have the places of honor. Townspeople of the church and congregation are also invited to take their food that all may "break bread together" and get better acquainted.

September 3 will be "School Day." All students of every kind of school in the homes of the church are invited. Dr. Eugene Vert will give the message. He is a product of the Dixon schools, and Northwestern and Harvard Universities. He has finished his first year as Professor at Dakota Wesleyan University at Mitchell, S. D. The pastor will deliver his first children's sermon at this service. Special music and fine hymns will be featured at all services, to which everyone is cordially invited.

What Dreams Are Made Of

By HILLIS MILLS

NOISE isn't noise at all, and color isn't color. Our eyes and ears are all wrong about everything—or so the learned scientists have just seen fit to tell us.

It's interesting, if true. Unfortunately, we don't feel any better after learning that our five senses aren't reliable. We're not any happier to find that all the worn furniture in our home is only an ugly illusion—just a dirty trick played by our optic nerves. Scientifically, of course, that battered bedroom suite and the scarred pieces in the breakfast nook are merely mistakes in our nervous system. We aren't sure about it—maybe the scientific gentlemen are right.

But whether they are or not, we're thankful that rosy "illusions" are always possible with paint. Fresh color applied to old pieces of furniture is an ideal method of bringing on what the scientists would call "pleasant dreams." Given any old table or chair, if the lines are fairly good, you can, literally, perform feats of magic with a brush and a can of color. Even unsatisfactory lines are often successfully hidden by a new surface. Color also has the power of assembling unrelated pieces into an attractive, well-matched set.

Take, for example, the case of a young woman of our acquaintance who furnished a small bedroom attractively by the clever use of paint. She had no room in her budget for new furniture, but she did have some old pieces of old furniture which she studied with many a frown. There was a table, chair and dresser of golden oak, all considerably battered—and a plain iron bed.

The legs of the table had to be sawed off a little to modernize the piece. Old fashioned curved arms supporting the dresser mirror were removed, and the mirror was hung separately. Brass handles on the drawers were replaced by modern knobs, and the holes that remained were filled with putty.

Bed, dresser and chair were enameled a mellow ivory and trimmed with a narrow stripe of jade green. The table was coated with jade green enamel to give the room accent, and to break up the conventional furniture "set" which sometimes proves monotonous. Any number of cool color schemes might have been used in this case: beige and turquoise, white and vermilion, canary and light green, ivory and French blue, or many other combinations.

Does your living room suffer from drabness? Opportunities for remaking old furniture with paint are limitless. End tables, and those small coffee tables so much in vogue at the moment, are excellent for introducing color accents. Second-hand stores have inexpensive ones, or they may be made by remodeling old tables.

We know one resourceful homemaker who made an amazingly lovely coffee table from an old mahogany picture frame, an ordinary piece of plywood and a massive, carved leg from a discarded piano. The plywood was mounted inside the frame and fastened securely to the piano leg base. The old surfaces were thoroughly cleaned, the plywood stained to a harmonizing shade and the entire table was given a coat of varnish.

Stray walnut pianos, it's true, are not lurking in the corners of everyone's menage, but ingenious home decorators will find something or other on which to mount old picture frames, if they really put their minds to it.

Furniture with a natural finish that is somewhat the worse for wear can easily be improved in appearance. Clean the article well, rub it down with fine sandpaper and dust thoroughly. Then, apply two coats of varnish, and it will lose all those marks of wear and time.

To achieve a lighter tone on a piece of furniture that has a stain finish, take away the varnish with varnish remover and apply a solvent to bleach out some of the stain. When the desired shade is obtained, apply a new coating of varnish.

If a piece of furniture is merely scratched a little and not seriously marred, it may be treated with boiled linseed oil. After several rubbings, the scratches will be imperceptible.

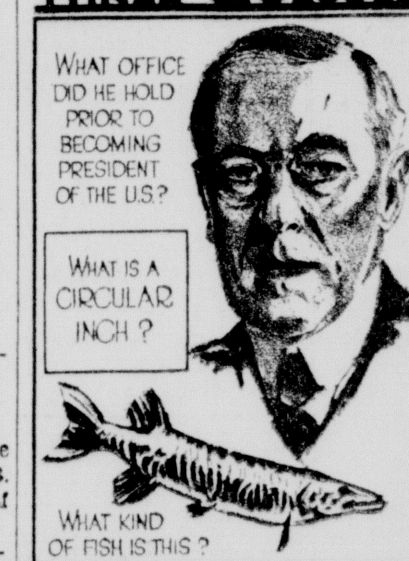

It is always possible, of course, to get happy results with lacquer and enamel on wood, but if you'd like, for a change, to have your painted furniture in a natural wood finish instead, apply a paint remover and "scrape off" the old paint. When it is dry, sandpaper the wood thoroughly, dust, brush on the desired shade of stain, and varnish.

There really isn't any point to living among unlovely illusions, day in and day out. To be coldly scientific about it, paint is the stuff that "dreams" are made of.
